

A Little Help, Please

You're juggling your boarding pass and carry-on bag when your cell phone starts playing the "Milkshake" ring tone you downloaded as a joke. Stop the music! No problem, with Jabra's BT110 Wireless Headset ($69.99). Hands-free, wireless and Bluetooth-enabled, the Jabra lets you answer your call by remote control—provided your cell phone is within 30 feet of the Jabra. There's also a Jabra A210 Bluetooth adapter ($59). Info: 800-327-2230, 858-622-9955 or www.jabra.com.

Walking the Dog

Now business travelers can enjoy a canine companion for a romp around Boston Common at Boston's Fairmont Copley Plaza Hotel (138 St. James Avenue). "Recently retired" from Guide Dog Foundation training, an enthusiastic 3-year-old black Lab named Catie is the hotel's new Canine Ambassador. Other amenities at the recently renovated, AAA Four Diamond property include home comforts, such as cheerful fireplaces, and the latest business services: high-speed Internet access in every room and Wi-Fi in the lobby. The Canine Ambassador program, begun in 2001 at Fairmont's Hotel Vancouver in British Columbia, Canada, is also available at several other sites. Why didn't Catie go on to become a seeing eye dog? Less than perfect eyesight. Rooms start at $229. Info: 800-441-1414, 617-267-5300 or www.fairmont.com/copleyplaza.
