INN STYLE

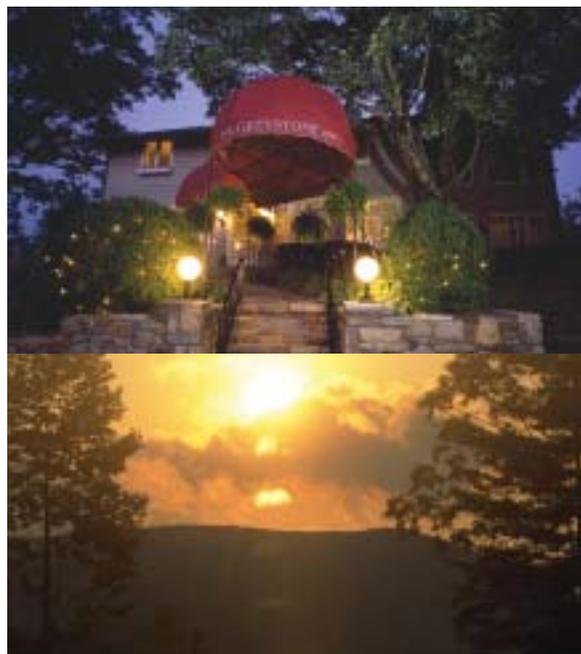

FORGET CHAMPAGNE, candlelit dinners and Sinatra tunes. One of North Carolina's most luxurious country inns takes romance to new heights. Spacious luxury suites and rooms, French doors that open to private porches overlooking the lake, oversized Jacuzzi tubs, gas fireplaces, room service—need we say more?

Nestled on the private 614-acre Lake Toxaway in the Blue Ridge mountains, the award-winning Greystone Inn has been wooing guests long before its present day incarnation as a top-rated getaway.

In its day, the 1915 Swiss architectural style mansion was among a host of private lake-side homes that attracted Thomas Edison, Harvey Firestone, Henry Ford and their contemporaries as house guests. The 19-room, six-story house was restored in 1985 with period furniture and reproductions when it opened as the Greystone Inn. To accommodate the rising demand, an adjacent three-story, 12-room structure was added a few years later.

It also features a 5,300-square-foot health and fitness center, full-service spa, and an 18-hole golf course and 20-acre Tom Fazio-designed driving range. It has received 19 consecutive “AAA Four-Diamond Awards” and Conde Nast Traveler magazine's top Carolina mountain lodging destination rating.

Rates are from $270 to $510 depending on the accommodations and time of year and includes gourmet dinner, high country breakfast, sunset champagne cruise, and golf resort amenities. Call 800-824-5766 or visit www.greystoneinn.com. —J.D.
